Jason Dundas reveals his next Big Adventure is on Seven

Seven signs New York-based television presenter and model for new reality-adventure series.

Channel Seven today announced television presenter and model, Jason Dundas, will host THE BIG ADVENTURE – a new reality-adventure series which sees contestants compete in extreme conditions to win the prize of a lifetime.

Mr Dundas is currently based in New York where for the last three years he has co-hosted Vh1's Big Morning Buzz Live weekdays around America, live from Times Square. He is also Menswear Ambassador for Australian retail giant David Jones.

Mr Dundas said: "The second I heard about the concept for The Big Adventure I was hooked! This show taps into the heart of what I believe makes us all Australian, our passion for adventure. After hosting 400 episodes of morning tv in New York, I'm really excited for my next big adventure; to return home and front one of Australia's most exciting new tv shows. And to change someone's life forever!"

THE BIG ADVENTURE is an original Seven Productions concept, from the makers of Seven's hit reality-competition series, My Kitchen Rules and House Rules.

The series will go into production later this year.
